

I oppose loosening the rules designed to promote and protect diversity of media ownership. These rules were adopted to ensure that the public would receive a diverse range of viewpoints from the media, and not simply the opinions of a handful of media conglomerates.

In these times especially, when under color of the "war on terrorism" the US is burdened with a more secretive and imperious government than any time in recent history, it is imperative that our traditional prerogative of a free flow of communication to the public about our leader's actions be maintained.